Registration Opens for Christian-based, Student Clubs for Homeschool Students

COLUMBIA, S.C. – The Christian Village Academy (TCVA) celebrates the launch of its homeschool division with three student clubs for students in Kindergarten through 8th grades. Beginning Tuesday, January 9th, students will participate in a performing arts club, an academic challenge team and a student news club.

Classes meet Tuesdays and Wednesdays and offer students in-person and hybrid engagement with peers; builds confidence, self-esteem, public speaking and problem-solving skills; along with script-writing, professional audio and video production skills. During the Spring semester, students will participate in an academic challenge quiz bowl, an Easter Production, a spelling bee and produce weekly, student newscasts. The classes are a part of TCVA's hybrid school, which offers students supplemental classes in core subjects.

Classes begin, Tuesday, January 9th at 10am at Northeast United Methodist Church in Columbia (4000 Hardscrabble Rd.) For more information, contact The Christian Village Academy through a link on their website at mycva.net.
